

2ND HOT TOPICS
IN FUNCTIONAL DIGESTIVE SURGERY MEETING
AND SIUCP ANNUAL CONGRESS

LIVE SURGERY

The doctor Japix heals Aeneas' wounded leg. Ancient Roman fresco from the "House of Sirico" in Pompeii, Italy, mid 1st century. On display at the Museo Archeologico Nazionale (Naples).

SAVE THE DATE

June 22-24, 2025 - Naples and Pompeii, Italy

Hot topic I

GASTROESOPHAGEAL
MORPHO-FUNCTIONAL DIAGNOSIS

Hot topic II

ANO-RECTAL MORPHO-FUNCTIONAL DIAGNOSIS

Hot topic III

GASTRO-ESOPHAGEAL
REFLUX AND
FUNCTIONAL SURGERY

Hot topic IV

GASTRO-ESOPHAGEAL
REFLUX AND BARIATRIC SURGERY

Hot topic V

INEFFECTIVE DEFECATION AND
PELVIC MULTIORGAN PROLAPSE

Hot topic VI

HAEMORROIDS, SEPSIS AND ANAL FISSURE

Meeting rationale

The functional pathologies of the digestive system, that is, those conditions where normal digestive functions are altered without any immediately identifiable organic cause, are increasingly observed in our daily clinical practice. These functional alterations can affect every part of the digestive system, particularly the esophageal-gastric and recto-anal junctions, often with a very long course and symptoms that significantly impact patients' quality of life.

A crucial role in the treatment of these pathologies, such as gastroesophageal reflux disease (GERD), obstructed defecation syndrome (ODS), anal incontinence (AI), and also GERD in patients eligible for bariatric surgery, is increasingly entrusted to surgery. Identifying indications and limits for these interventions remains a topic of vigorous debate among specialists.

Participation in this event, organized exclusively in Round Tables among recognized opinion leaders, aims to provide a high scientific and educational update on the most recent epidemiological, diagnostic, and therapeutic developments related to functional digestive pathologies of surgical interest. Additionally, the implementation of two pre-congress courses represents an added value for those wishing to enhance their knowledge in specialized functional digestive diagnostics.

Scientific Sponsorships Requested:

Organizing Secretariat and ECM Provider

Meeting&Words s.r.l Chief: Giovanna Farina ECM Provider no. 1037

Phone +39 0823437898 +39 3351051113

info@meetingwords.it